POWER MEMORIAL UNVEILED.

Presentation of Tablet by Vermont Avenue Christian Congregation.

In memory of Frederick D. Power, who was pastor of the Vermont Avenue Christian Church for thirty-six years, a bronze tablet was unveiled yesterday. Rev. Peter Ainslie, pastor of the Christian Temple of Baltimore made the presentation address, and Rev. Earle Wilfley, who succeeded Dr. Power as pastor of the Vermont Ave-nue Church, accepted the tablet on behalf of the congregation. The tablet was erected by the members of the congregation and friends of Dr. Power. It was designed by H. K. Bush-Brown. Dr. Power was largely instrumental in the construction of the present church. President Garfield attended the church during Dr. Power's context.

LONDON, October 26, 9:05 p.m.—Ber-nard Pares, professor of Russian history and literature at the University of Liverpool, who is now working as the British government's correspondent at the Russian headquarters, writes as follows under date of October 24: "I have spent some days in Austrian territory conquered by the Russians. The Russian broad gauge railroad has been carried some distance into Galicia and further railroad communication with the Austrian gauge and cars is in working order.

"The large waiting rooms are filled with wounded on stretchers. Doctors and sisters of mercy are in constant attendance upon them. The wounded utter no sound, except in a few cases. "One poor fellow, a bronzed, strapping lad, had been shot through the lungs. I saw him dying. He looked so pale. His wide-opened eyes kept moving as he gasped and wrestled sliently with death. He seemed so grateful to those who sat with him. He died early in the morning.

In a supplementary statement, the embassy again pointed out that cargoes, even of contraband, are being allowed to proceed where it is established tramways continued working and the shops remained open. The fighting, which was most severe, was all outside the town. The amount of damage done by the artillery in the zones of action was not great.

"The cultivation of the land is going on as though no war was in progress. There is no friction between the little Russian peasants and the troops, or the new administrators. The Jews are adopting a waiting attitude. The general situation is a great credit to the Russians, and gives ample proof of their close kinship with the great majority of the conquered population."

He mbassy again pointed out the being allowed to proceed where it is established that they actually are destined to neutral countries. The statement said:

"Although so far cargoes of contraband have been detained in order to make sure that they are really intended for neutral countries, and though some cargoes have been retained, such as copper destined for Krupps, the British government has not yet taken a single cargo without paying for it, and all cargoes which were really destined for neutral countries have been the little and all cargoes which were really destined for neutral countries have been allowed to proceed to their destinations."
